

French, Englishmen, Italians and Poles came to the commemoration ceremony „70 years end of the Second World War“ after to Hofheim.

„70 years ago one of the most awful, person-despising epochs of the history of mankind came to an end, the second world war“ – so far the resolution of the town of Hofheim begins which was read out on the occasion of the commemorative event with all twin towns on the 15th of May, 2015 in the Hofheimer town hall. A complete documentation of this celebration stands ready in the download area on the foot of this side in English, Italian, Polish, French and German.

Official representatives, citizens and female citizens from the twin towns Chinon, Tiverton, Buccino and Pruszcz Gdański were invited to Hofheim to commit included the members of Förderkreis Hofheimer Städtepartnerschaften,,, representatives of the urban committees, the religious communities, associations, schools and other guests to this commemoration ceremony together with members of the town partnerships. In addition Mr. Wolfgang Vater, Hofheim town delegate's director welcomed all guests.

To the initiators it was important that people of all five towns were involved in the creation of this commemoration ceremony – those which are involved for many years and decades in the town partnership and have maybe still experienced the second world war even and also young people who know the war only from stories and history books.

For the festival talk Prof.Dr. Jürgen Müller, professor at the historical seminar Johann Wolfgang Goethe's university of Frankfurt am Main could be won. He spoke on the subject „70 years end of the Second World War – From, wild continent' to, space of freedom, security and to right. “

Youngsters in France, England, Italy, Poland and Hofheim had asked contemporary witnesses about the question „Say what was the war?“ put and the answers in the form of interviews or reports together. These impressive reports of directly affected people in all five towns were reported. Musicians of the music school of Hofheim and some young guests from the partner towns accompanied the commemoration ceremony.

The Mayor of Hofheim, Mrs. Gisela Stang spoke the epilogue. In the connection representatives of all towns read out their part of the resolution „No more war – our responsibility for an open, peaceful and united Europe“ and signed this.